OUR DONORS | 2009-2010

www.osgoode.yorku.ca
As Canada’s oldest law school, the history of Osgoode Hall reflects the political, legal and social history of our nation. Osgoode graduates have played leading roles in pivotal events in Canada’s history, from the enactment of the Charter of Rights, to the birth of clinical legal education, to the admission of the first woman to the Bar, and even the first Grey Cup. The Osgoode History & Archives Project aims to archive and preserve valuable documents from our past, making our history more widely known and supporting research and scholarship into our graduates’ roles as leaders, innovators and nation-builders. Support the Osgoode History & Archives Project and help us bring our remarkable historical legacy to life for students, faculty, staff and alumni.

Dean’s Message

If you had asked me when I graduated from Osgoode in 1992 to describe the best job I could ever have, I might have mentioned a wish to be a law professor one day, but could never have imagined becoming the Dean of Osgoode Hall Law School. Not only do I have the extraordinary opportunity to lead this great law school as its 18th Dean, but to do so when we’ve just raised $38 million and when we’re about to open a spectacular new building.

From the picture on the front cover, you can see that we are still in the middle of construction and while I was first shocked to see the building stripped down to the studs, I have to tell you that the progress is absolutely remarkable. We have just reached an important milestone with the reopening of our renovated classroom wing in time for the start of the 2010/11 academic year. The classrooms have been finished with improved lighting, gleaming oak and new flooring. And windows. Lots of new windows. Glass and light are set to take the place of bricks and mortar as the defining image of Osgoode. Construction will continue throughout the year on the rest of the building, including a spacious new atrium, new student lounge and café/bistro, a state-of-the-art courtroom and classroom space and completely reimagined law library. We expect to return to our totally renovated and expanded building next summer and look forward to seeing you at the launch of the new building next fall.

The building campaign, the changes to the curriculum and new admissions policy are all the result of broad consultation and collaborative planning. As our last strategic plan, Making a Difference: 2006-2010, nears its conclusion, we are entering the next phase in the strategic planning process. During the fall, there will be a series of town-hall style meetings to solicit input on the various topic areas. I will be looking to alumni to provide an important perspective on Osgoode’s future direction(s) and welcome your participation. As more information becomes available it will be sent out in our e-newsletter, The Osgoode Brief. If you have not been receiving this please send an email to alumni@osgoode.yorku.ca to have your email address included.

I look forward to broadening and deepening Osgoode’s commitment to make a difference in the community, including in its own backyard. Whether through the Osgoode Public Interest Requirement (OPIR), the Community & Legal Aid Services Programme (CLASP), Parkdale, or the Mediation Clinic, more and more Osgoode students are taking a leadership role in our neighbourhood’s high schools and communities.

Finally, I wish to emphasize how grateful I am to the entire Osgoode community — faculty, staff, students, and alumni – who have made my transition to the Dean’s Office so smooth and enjoyable. I would particularly like to thank Interim Dean Jinyan Li for her remarkable dedication to the Law School over the past year.

I have had the opportunity to learn and work at many different academic institutions. I can say with confidence that Osgoode is truly a remarkable place. It is one of Canada’s great academic institutions. I hope you share my pride in its past and the promise of its future. I very much look forward to meeting and working together with our alumni.

The McMillan LLP Reading Room will be for Students

For McMillan LLP it was always about students. From the first moment they considered making a gift to The Building Osgoode Campaign, they talked about directing it toward something that would benefit students and their experience in the Law School. The new lower reading room of the library was the perfect opportunity and their gift of $300,000 will help to make it a reality.

In the renovation of the building, the library will undergo a complete transformation that will make it much more accessible and better able to meet the changing needs of legal education and research. The main entrance will be moved from the ground floor to the main floor off the new atrium. The use of compact shelving will create more space for library patrons and will allow for pockets of casual seating and the construction of more group study rooms, a growing necessity in the new curriculum. The library, like the rest of the building, will be completely wireless.

The McMillan Reading Room will be at the very west end of the ground floor and will have large windows on three sides, providing tremendous natural light. It will also have large new tables that will be fitted with individual lamps and plugs.

“McMillan's generosity will help us to create a comfortable and functional space that will, no doubt, become a favourite studying space for our students,” said Dean Lorne Sossin. “This really gives our students something to look forward to and I am grateful to the firm for their support.”

What’s the headline?

The McMillan LLP gift was announced to students, faculty and staff at the Launch of the Academic Year Event held in the Moot Court Room on September 8, 2010. To celebrate the special occasion, the firm sponsored a photo captioning contest. Students had the chance to write the caption for the photo of Dean Sossin on the front of this publication and win tickets to a Toronto Maple Leafs game. Two students, Richard Chan ’13 and Grant Lopatriello ’12 submitted the same caption, “It was like this when I got here!” and shared the prize.
The William Osgoode Society has been established to honour the Law School’s most generous donors. Named after the first Chief Justice of Upper Canada, the Society reflects the School’s long history and important influence on legal education. Members in the Society include individuals, law firms, foundations and associations whose cumulative paid gifts total more than $25,000. Members who have given more than $100,000 will also be recognized in the York University Honour Court.

The Thomas Brown Phillips Stewart Society

Thomas Brown Phillips Stewart (1865–1892) was a barrister and poet who died at the early age of 27. He left a portion of his estate to establish a student library at Osgoode Hall, which later became the largest law library in Canada.

The Thomas Brown Phillips Stewart Society was created to commemorate Thomas Brown Phillips Stewart as Osgoode’s first benefactor and to honour all those who, like this generous young man, made Osgoode Hall Law School a part of their legacy through a planned gift.

Membership in the Society is offered to those alumni and friends who wish to donate to Osgoode by means of a planned gift including charitable bequests, life insurance or other future arrangements. All members will be recognized annually in the Osgoode Hall Law School Report on Giving.

We would be pleased to discuss with donors and their advisors, the many areas within the Law School where bequests can be directed. We do appreciate the opportunity to review the terms of the Will (especially for specific bequests) before they are finalized, so we can confirm our ability to accept and fulfill the gift’s intent.
