Report on Giving

2002 – 2003
The Class of 2006

First-year Osgoode LLB students celebrated the start of the year with a series of exciting social events including a group photo and reception on September 2, 2003 at the original home of the Law School – Osgoode Hall on Queen Street West in downtown Toronto.

This report lists all donors who gave at least $100 to Osgoode Hall Law School from May 1, 2002 to April 30, 2003. Those donors who have requested anonymity do not appear in the listings. While we have made every effort to ensure accuracy, please let us know of any errors or omissions by calling the Osgoode Hall Law School Advancement Office.
Dean’s Message

“...I attach the highest importance to the cultivation of the reasoning faculties. To be compelled to think is the paramount need of the student of law...”

— W. A. Reeve, Inaugural address to the Law School, Ontario, November 1889.

This year, my first as Dean of Osgoode Hall Law School, I have had occasion to think of William A. Reeve, the School’s first Dean. He was charged with a monumental task – to create a law school that provides quality legal education. Over the subsequent 125 years Osgoode has not only realized that initial objective but has far exceeded it. We have grown to be Canada’s largest common-law law school and have educated the greatest number of lawyers in the country. We have pioneered many new programs, curricula and methods of teaching law that are now considered standard in legal education in Canada.

Today, Osgoode faces different challenges than those of 1889 but they are no less daunting. We are committed to seeking opportunities for students and faculty that will further enhance our programs and strengthen Osgoode’s reputation. However, while we work hard to advance, we do so at a time when government funding for post-secondary education is decreasing.

Nevertheless, Osgoode is extremely fortunate. We have been better able than many Canadian law schools to progress at this difficult time because of the support we receive from our alumni and friends. Indeed, as the financial statistics on the following page demonstrate, our paid gifts for the current year were double what they were in 2001 – 2002. I cannot state strongly enough just how critical these donations have been. We are able to provide greater financial assistance to our students, renovate our teaching space, appoint outstanding legal scholars and build our library resources because of the generosity of our donors. These contributions have not only strengthened Osgoode today but will ensure that we will continue as a leader in legal education.

On behalf of the faculty, students and staff of Osgoode Hall Law School, I sincerely thank our donors for their support.

The William Osgoode Society

The William Osgoode Society has been established to honour the Law School’s most generous donors. Named after the first Chief Justice of Upper Canada, the Society reflects the School’s long history and important influence on legal education. Members in the Society include individuals, law firms, foundations, and associations whose cumulative paid gifts total more than $25,000. Members who have given more than $100,000 will also be recognized in the York University Honour Court.

Howard Black’s ambition, as noted in his high school yearbook when he graduated in 1977, was “to become a happy and successful lawyer.” He also was quoted in the same publication as saying that “education is life itself.”

Twenty-six years later, Black recalled his words as he stood up on January 31, 2003 to publicly thank his parents – Aaron and Beverley Black – and Osgoode Hall Law School for helping him to realize his high school goal.

The occasion was the dedication of the Aaron and Beverley Black Seminar Room at Osgoode whose refurbishment and naming was made possible by a generous gift from Black.

“I have been blessed in that my high school ambitions have been realized,” said Black (LLB ’83, LLM ’01) who specializes in estate planning and estate litigation with Minden Gross Grafstein & Greenstein LLP and has taught an estates course at Osgoode for the past 13 years. “Education is indeed life itself. We never stop learning, from one another and from ourselves.”

Black noted that Osgoode has been and continues to be “a significant institution” in his life. “This edifice, what it stands for, and the people who work and study within it, have all added a tremendous dimension to my life. My longstanding attachment to Osgoode has generated in me feelings of great gratitude, warmth, dedication, and commitment to legal education, in general, and to this institution and its members, in particular.”

Black told the gathering of family and friends that his success in the legal profession is due in large part to his parents and the decision to name the seminar room after them was “an easy one for me.”

“Just as I wanted to express my gratitude to Osgoode, so did I, to an even greater extent, wish to show my parents, not posthumously but while they were still living, my love and gratitude for all that they have given me and for what they have meant to me.”

Sadly, just a few months after he told his parents of his plans for the seminar room, his father died. This made the dedication day all the more emotional for the Black family.

“I know my late husband Aaron would have been overwhelmed, as I am,” said Beverley Black. “For our names to be attached to such a venerable and prestigious institution in Canada is an honour that we could never envision.”

Peter Hogg, whose five-year term as Dean ended on July 1, commended Howard Black for being an outstanding alumnus, adjunct faculty member and donor. (Black was also recently appointed a member of the board of directors of the Osgoode Alumni Association.) Hogg said the Law School has a great need for more seminar rooms for small-group teaching and is “enormously grateful” for the Aaron and Beverley Black Seminar Room.

When the Honourable Richard Estcourt Holland, Q.C. passed away in Toronto on March 27, 2002 at the age of 76, the outpouring of grief among members of the legal profession and others who knew him was enormous.

A giant of a man – literally (he was a strapping 6’ 3” in his younger years) and figuratively speaking – R.E. Holland (LLB ‘50) was a special and unique individual.

A loving husband, a proud father and grandfather, a caring friend, a man with a deep and abiding love of the law, a superb counsel, an outstanding trial judge, a pioneer in the field of alternative dispute resolution, an outdoorsman who loved fishing and duck hunting, Holland enjoyed the respect of all who knew him.

This undoubtedly explains the unprecedented response the Law School received to a solicitation letter for the R.E. Holland, Q.C. Award. A total of $100,490 was donated for the award, which was established to commemorate the dedication that Holland had for the administration of justice in Ontario and to annually assist a promising student.

The award was the brainchild of Tom McGrenere, Q.C., of Lawson McGrenere LLP who first met Holland as an articling student in the former firm of Bassel, Sullivan, Holland and Lawson and who took over a good portion of Holland’s practice when he was appointed to the Trial Division of the Supreme Court of Ontario in 1972.

McGrenere discussed the idea of establishing the award with Brian Wheatley, Q.C., a founder of ADR Chambers Inc., the largest alternative dispute resolution group in the country. After retiring from the Bench in 1990, Holland practised alternative dispute resolution, first at Genest Murray and then, from 1995 on, at ADR Chambers. “His greatest contribution to the administration of justice in retirement was fostering the growth of mediation in this province,” Wheatley says.

As co-chairs of the scholarship committee that spearheaded fund raising for the Honourable R. E. Holland, Q.C. Award, McGrenere and Wheatley were not surprised that so many people wanted to honour the memory of this courteous gentlemen with the English accent, the wonderful smile and the inquiring mind who was such a good listener and who was so fair-minded and empathetic to people and their problems.

Declares McGrenere: “Dick loved his involvement in the judicial process and brought an enthusiasm, equalled by few, to his role of counsel, judge and mediator. He enjoyed the immense respect of all who knew him. That respect and affection is well demonstrated in the support by the profession and friends of the scholarship fund set up in Dick’s memory at Osgoode Hall Law School.”

Thomas Brown Phillips Stewart (1865 – 1892) was a barrister and poet who died at the early age of 27. He left a portion of his estate to establish a student library at Osgoode Hall, which later became the largest law library in Canada.

The Thomas Brown Phillips Stewart Society was created to commemorate Thomas Brown Phillips Stewart as Osgoode’s first benefactor and to honour all those who, like this generous young man, made Osgoode Hall Law School a part of their legacy through a planned gift.

Members:
William C. Busby
Derek Hogg
L. MacDonald Killaly
William Turnville

Membership in the Society is offered to those alumni and friends who wish to donate to Osgoode by means of a planned gift including charitable bequests, life insurance or other future arrangements. All members will be recognized annually in the Osgoode Hall Law School Report on Giving.

We would be pleased to discuss with donors and their advisors, the many areas within the Law School where bequests can be directed. We do appreciate the opportunity to review the terms of the Will (especially for specific bequests) before they are finalized, so we can confirm our ability to accept and fulfill the gift’s intent.
